

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

PREFACE.

The necessity of physical culture in our public schools is already so generally recognized by leading educators and thinking people that no especial plea is needed for it here.

It is also recognized that this physical education should be a general one without regard to special work,—a training of the will and of the response to it, in nerves and muscles. Its aim should be to develop not only a strong body, but also the elements of grace of pose and gesture to round off the youth and make him a more perfect unit.

Of course, no fine artistic analysis of expression can be expected from public school children, but they can be taught the difference between awkwardness and grace, and to develop in themselves something of the ease and self-possession that comes from the harmonious bodily expression of mental acts and emotions.

The Motion Song should bring the hand, eye, head, the body—the entire carriage, in response to the sentiment expressed. Most of these songs have stood the test of schoolroom trial: permission for the use of some of them has been most kindly granted by the owners of copyrights.

This little collection is offered to the teachers, in the hope that they may find in it something to aid in their physical culture work and something of variety for school celebrations of our national holidays.

ILLUSTRATIONS.

The illustrations in this book are from photographs of pupils of a public school, that had received no special training in expression.

While some of the poses are open to criticism from a high, artistic standpoint, it was deemed best to insert them instead of sketches with each song, as a better illustration of what can be done in the public schools, in gesture and expression of the face.

Figures 1 and 2 represent the girl's courtesy and the boy's bow, in the positions that best seemed to show them. The other attitudes illustrate the simple gestures most frequently indicated in the directions through the book, and the animating sentiment of each is readily understood

TO TEACHERS.

The success of the Motion Song depends upon the child's entering into the spirit of what he sings. Thus, in the song, "The Robin and Bluebird," unless he feels the content of the robin, proud of his mate and well-built nest, and sympathizes with the bluebird's loneliness, the gestures will be merely mechanical.

The child must think and feel, before he pictures with eye, hand, and body. The gesture itself should slightly precede the words. A thought or an emotion that is plainly described needs no gesture, it is the half hidden that should have such expression.

To avoid all jerky motions, one gesture should, as far as possible, pass easily into the next, remembering that the wrist leads in all arm movements.

Whatever the attitude, the whole body should be in harmony; if one foot is in advance and one arm extended, the body should be in harmony, with the weight upon the forward foot; the face, also, should give expression to the sentiment.

All mechanical effect should be avoided. A gesture is not necessary for every word or every line, and if a school falls naturally into another than the described gesture, by all means encourage them to give their own expressions unless they are very faulty.

From ten to twenty motions are indicated for each song; it will be far better to omit some than to add more. Too many gestures spoil the effect. The Delsarte principle is far in advance of the old "hand-flinging acting."

It will be noticed that there is a similarity of gestures outlined for the songs, but this similarity will simplify them for both teacher and pupil, without making them monotonous, as the motion songs are intended for use only in connection with tables of exercises. Experienced teachers, however, can, if they choose, add a greater variety of gesture.

The songs in the list adapted to more advanced pupils have been found practical even in the seventh and eighth year of school.

Autumn.

Autumn days are coming
 Filled with happy hours,
Purple grapes are hanging
 In their leafy bowers;
Ripe brown nuts are falling,
 Apples gay and bright,
All to greet the children
 In the Autumn light.
Maple, oak and willow,
 Red and brown and yellow,
All to greet the children
 In the Autumn light.

Autumn Time.

- 13 Figure K, carrying the arm to the right, slowly following path of the moon.
- 14 Same as 6.

NOTE.—The rocking movement may be varied for older pupils.

No. 6 Arms sideways, lift, palms forward; right foot forward. Swing arms forward and backward, at the same time bending the forward and backward knee, alternately.

At No. 7 bring heels together, stand erect, arms sideways, palms up; bend body left and right, letting opposite hand fall gracefully over the head. This movement should be light, without any noise of the feet and should keep time with the music.

In the second verse No. 10 step forward diagonally to the right, bring right hand to the mouth, to throw the voice as in calling a great distance, and hold the word "call" longer than indicated by the music; then carry the right hand with a sweeping motion to the right.

The expression of the face will add greatly to this song.

Arbor Day.

Air, LIGHTLY ROW.

M. L. P.

- 1 Arbor Day, Arbor Day,
 - 1 See, the fields are fresh and gay ;^a
 - 3 All is bright, cheerful sight,
 After Winter's night.
 - 4 Birds are flying in the air,
 - 5 All we see is fresh and fair,
 Bowers green, now are seen,
 - 6 Flowers peep between.

- 2 7 Swaying trees, swaying trees,
 Rocking gently in the breeze,
 - 8 Dressed so gay, fine array,
 For this Arbor Day.
 - 9 While we plant our tree so dear,
 - 10 All the others list to hear
 How we sing, in the spring,
 And our voices ring.

- 3 11 Here we stand, here we stand,
 Round the tree, a royal band ;
 Music floats, cheering notes,
 Sweetly, gaily floats.
 - 12 March along with heads so high,
 While our tree is standing nigh ;
 Step away, light and gay,
 On this Arbor Day.

The Flag of Our Own Country.

Tune, HOLD THE FORT.

Sylvia Manning.

- 1 ¹ Oh, the flag of our own country,
 ² Let it wave on high;
 3 May the stars and stripes ne'er perish,
 And no foe come nigh.

CHORUS.

- 4 Floating o'er the heads of freemen,
 May it wave above;
 O'er the homes we prize so dearly,
 And the land we love.

- 2 ⁵ Once it waved in time of bloodshed,
 ⁶ O'er the battle plain;
 7 Now above a land united,
 Free from slavery's strain. CHO.

- 3 ⁸ May we ever love its colors,
 Red and white and blue;
 9 May we one and all prove faithful,
 Faithful, kind and true. CHO.

From "Royal Gifts," by permission.

Pussy Willow.

Tune, HOLD THE FORT.

M. L. P.

- 1 When the pussies on the willow
Open in the spring,
 - 2 If you listen very closely,
You will hear them sing:—
 - 3 "We are pussies, we are pussies,
Though we never purr;
 - 4 We are gaily swinging, swinging,
In our coats of fur.
- 2 5 "When the winter winds were blowing,
Then Jack Frost came near;
 - 6 In our cradles soundly sleeping,
We had nought to fear."
 - 7 Winds, blow softly, winds, blow softly,
Swing the cradle slow;
Do not wake the little catkins
Sleeping soft and low.
- 3 8 "When the April rains come dropping
Gently on the tree,
And the sunbeams bring us warning,
9 'Sleep is o'er for thee!'
 - 10 Then we spring out on the branches,
Gaily swing and swing;
While the children shout to see us
In the early spring."

Pupils seated.

Raise the Banner.

M. L. P.

Arr. from "Pop goes the Weasel" by J. E. M.

1. ¹ All a-round the flag we stand, In a hap - py man - ner,
 2. ³ We will give our hearts to thee, In a roy - al man - ner;
 3. ⁶ We will hail our flag so true, In a heart - y man - ner,

- We, a strong and loy - al band Sing to our ban - ner.
 4 We will have our coun-try free, Free, our fair ban - ner.
 7 Hail the red and white and blue On our fair ban - ner.

- ² Pull the ropes, our boys so true; Raise the flag of pur - est blue,
⁵ Let the stars and stripes now wave, O'er a land so true and brave,
⁸ See it wav - ing in our sight, ⁹ O'er this west - ern land so bright,

- With its stripes and white stars too, Up, raise our ban - ner!
 The dear flag our fa - thers gave, High, floats our ban - ner!
¹⁰ Al - ways stand - ing for the right, Loud, cheer our ban - ner!

Suitable for an out-of-door song, when raising a flag,

² Imitate pulling ropes; first with right hand, then left, from above, downward; looking up. (At the same time, let one or two boys raise the flag.)

³ Waving motion outward of both hands, slightly bow the head.
